SUBSTITUTE JUDGE — O. Charles Hosterman was sworn-in as acting Judge of the Circleville Municipal Court Thursday morning by Judge William D. Radcliff, administrative director for the courts of Ohio. Holding the family Bible is Mrs. Lucy Hosterman, while Mrs. Radcliff, Hosterman's mother, looks on.

Hosterman Assumes Duties As Municipal Court Judge

Promising just to "keep the seat warm" for Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb, local attorney O. Charles Hosterman was appointed acting judge of the Municipal Court in brief ceremonies Thursday morning.

Judge Hosterman was appointed to the position through the end of 1975 after Judge Lamb became ill last month.

"It's his bench," Hosterman said, "and I'll relinquish it the moment he returns."

Judge Lamb, almost synonymous with the city court system, was the first and has been the only municipal justice since Circleville council devised the court in 1954.

Since his illness, local attorneys have been filling in on a "day-to-day basis" according to clerk Carolyn Royster. A municipal court attorney, Judge William Sammons, acted on some of the cases. But he could only hold sessions twice a week.

Judge Hosterman was selected for his appointment by the Pickaway County Bar Association.

His step-father, Judge William D. Radcliff, administrative director of the Ohio Supreme Court, performed the swearing-in ceremonies.

Hosterman's wife, Lucy, held a family Bible and Mrs. Radcliff was present.

Judge Radcliff, who lives at 630 Ridgewood Dr., served as Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge for 10 years and was Judge of the Court of Appeals for six. His robe, presented by the Pickaway County Bar Association, was worn by Hosterman during the ceremony.

Judge Hosterman, a Columbus native, graduated from Ohio State University and passed his bar examination in 1965.

He is associated with the law firm, Margulis, Gussler, Hall, and Hosterman, with offices in Circleville and Ashville.

Hosterman and his wife Lucy, who live at 665 Ridgewood Dr., have two children, Christopher, 10, and Tracy, 11.

2 Inmates Free Trio, Surrender

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Two federal reformatory inmates, with the help of a girl friend who allegedly smuggled them pistols, held three persons hostage for 10½ hours before surrendering and releasing their prisoners unharmed.

Warden Tim Keohane said the inmates were talked out of their bid for release from the Federal Youth Center by "a steady effort on our part that nobody was going to beat them up." Paul Ortiz, a counselor at the reformatory who participated in the negotiations, said, "We convinced them there was no way out."

The inmates' bid for release from the center, a correctional facility for youthful offenders located about 15 miles southwest of Denver, began shortly after noon Wednesday when the woman arrived to visit the inmates. Authorities said the lack of a search procedure for visitors enabled her to bring in three guns concealed in her purse.

The hostages — a reformatory guard, an inmate and the inmate's mother — were forced at gunpoint to lie on their backs on the floor of the visiting room the entire time, officials said.

The inmates were identified as Alfred Smith Rollins, 19, of Kansas City, serving a sentence for bank robbery as a juvenile; and Henry Michael Cassidy, 20, a Blackfoot Indian from Missoula, Mont., serving a term for burglary on an Indian reservation.

The FBI identified the woman, Nancy Ann Shupe, 19, of Denver, as Cassidy's girl friend. Agents said a fourth individual, Berry Craig Mosman, in his 20s and from Denver, had rented a car that the woman had left in the center parking lot, apparently for use as a getaway vehicle.

Weather

Clearing and cold tonight with a chance of frost. Low, low to mid 30s. Sunny and warmer Friday, high, low to mid 60s. Probability of precipitation, 10 per cent tonight and zero per cent Friday. Temperatures Wednesday were: high, 69; low, 39.

Economic Data Shows No Big Brightening

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising prices for farm products and industrial goods pushed the nation's wholesale price index up six-tenths of one per cent in September, the Labor Department reported today.

The September increase in wholesale prices was slightly below the August gain of eight-tenths of one per cent, despite a 4.3 per cent increase in prices for farm products, especially for vegetables, milk and livestock.

Prices of industrial commodities in September increased seven-tenths of one per cent, the largest increase since last November when they rose eight-tenths of one per cent. Prices of fuels and metals led the increase in industrial goods.

Prices of farm products had decreased 1.5 per cent in August, while industrial prices had risen six-tenths of one per cent.

The Labor Department said it was unusual that although prices of farm products and industrial goods increased in September, the over-all increase in prices was below the August increase.

This occurred because the over-all index is adjusted independently for seasonal price variations, instead of being adjusted on the basis of its individual components.

The Labor Department said the procedure can lead to contradictory results in times when prices fluctuate widely, as they have in recent months. The department said it plans to revise its procedures in 1976 to eliminate such contradictions.

Another barometer of the nation's economic activity will be announced Friday when the Labor Department reports on the unemployment rate in September.

The jobless rate is not expected to reveal any major changes in the continuing problem of unemployment.

Unemployment was 8.4 per cent of the labor force — about eight million workers — in August. Wholesale prices in August increased eight-tenths of 1 per cent.

For the three-month period ending in August, wholesale prices increased at an annual rate of 7.7 per cent. A good portion of increases in wholesale prices are passed along to the consumer, especially in the food and fuel areas.

The administration considers the nation's basic inflation rate — that means after one-time price shocks are stripped away — to be about 7 per cent for the foreseeable future.

The Labor Department said Wednesday that the number of persons receiving unemployment insurance during the week ending Sept. 13 was the lowest since January. It said benefits were paid to 5.6 million persons, a decline of 194,100 from the week before.

It also said initial claims for unemployment insurance in the week ending Sept. 2 totaled 367,000, down 13,000 from the previous week.

Several government economists said Wednesday they expected a modest increase in wholesale farm prices in September. Prices at the farm level dipped 1.5 per cent in August after rising 6.6 per cent in July.

Economists say reports for a single month on inflation or unemployment can be misleading, and they prefer to look at results for several months in order to identify trends.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant treasury secretary for economic affairs, said that with respect to wholesale prices, the index for industrial commodities is more important than farm products.

Prices of industrial commodities increased six-tenths of 1 per cent in August, up from previous months, and Jones said he hoped this didn't signal a new burst of inflation at the industrial level.

There is scarcely an economist or politician in or out of government who thinks unemployment or inflation rates can be reduced much below 7 per cent next year.

For example, the Democratic membership of the Joint Economic Committee announced on Wednesday a program of new tax cuts and government-financed jobs that it said would reduce unemployment next year to about 7.3 per cent.

That's not much different from the Ford administration's own official predictions for a jobless rate of between 7 and 7.5 per cent by the end of 1976.

Two leading economists told the Senate Budget Committee on Wednesday that 1975 tax cuts should be extended into 1976 so as not to endanger recovery from the recession.

Arthur M. Okun of the Brookings Institution and Murray L. Weidenbaum of Washington University said, however, they opposed an increase in the tax cuts.

Early Winter, Dry Summer Seen By Abe Weatherwise

DUBLIN, N.H. (AP) — The 184th edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac, out today, predicts an early winter and a drought next summer.

Abe Weatherwise, a pseudonym for the magazine's weather researchers, says the winter "will start out wild and then settle down to being mild through January."

Skiers in the Rockies, Appalachians and New England will be "jumping for joy," Abe says, but others may be less grateful as a blizzard sweeps across the Great Plains in late February, bringing new snow as far as New England.

In the summer, farmers in the Midwest and West will suffer "serious drought and frequent duststorms," Weatherwise predicts. "The abnormally hot summer in the wheat and corn belts should be of concern to all farmers — and consumers."

Although the almanac's forecasts have yet to be taken seriously by professional meteorologists, publisher C. Robertson Trowbridge insists the techniques — a use of various "cycles of nature" plus a close study of the moon and sun — are legitimate.

"When the order of the universe is becoming more apparent, to have something as big as the weather to happen just haphazardly is not true," he says. "The concept that men can predict the weather is true."

The astrological charts and elaborate weather tables that form the basis for the forecasts have been an almanac feature since the first edition in 1792. Trowbridge says the general predictions are virtually always correct, and the almanac claims an over-all accuracy rate of 75 to 80 per cent.

Last year, the almanac predicted that winter 1974-75 would be colder than normal, and that this past summer would be especially warm.

The almanac, the country's oldest continuous publication, is assembled today in an 18th century house and two connecting barns in this small New Hampshire town not far from the Massachusetts border.

In addition to the forecasts, it is packed full of trivia, planting tables, farm animal gestation period charts, zodiac secrets, recipes and advertising.

Trowbridge, who is also a state senator, says he expects to sell about 3.5 million copies this year at 75 cents apiece, compared with 900,000 a decade ago.

He attributes the increase to improved distribution, the recent interest in space, nostalgia and the "return to nature" trend.

Man Dies By Choice

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Chuck McCracken, who let himself be slowly poisoned by his own body wastes rather than face the agony of kidney machine treatments, is dead.

McCracken, 37, died of kidney failure Wednesday evening with his family at his hospital bedside, a spokesman at Loma Linda University Medical Center said.

His wife, Barbara, said he was conscious and talking to his family until about 10 minutes before his death. He entered the hospital Tuesday.

McCracken surprised doctors by living more than two months after he stopped taking twice-weekly dialysis treatments to remove the poisons from his body. He was expected to die within two or three weeks.

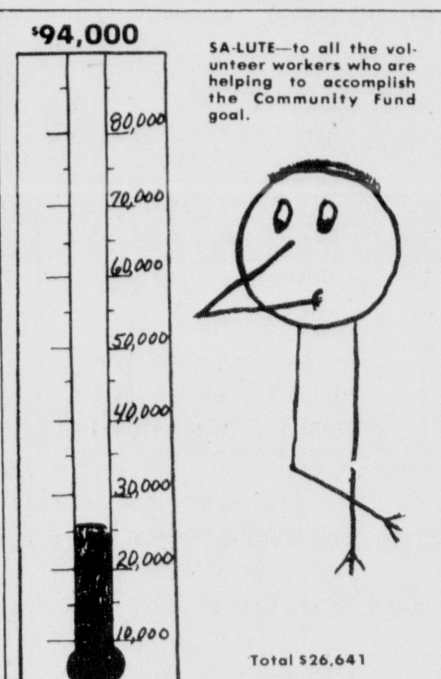

When he stopped the treatment July 22, McCracken said he would rather face certain death than suffer the "sheer agony" of the kidney machine. He was also blind, diabetic, paralyzed in the legs and suffering from a diseased thyroid.

Taft and Glenn Opposed In Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Sens. John Glenn and Robert Taft Jr. cast opposite votes Wednesday as the Senate tabled an amendment to free all new natural gas contracts from federal price controls.

Glenn, a Democrat, voted with the majority, while Taft, a Republican, opposed tabling.

Williamsporters Get Look At Sewage Treatment Plant

STUDY SCHEMATIC—Albert C. Seiler, left, of Burgess & Niple, Ltd., consulting engineers and planners, shows members of the Williamsport Village Council a mock-up of the proposed Sewage Facility. They are, from the left, Harman Lemming, Robert Metzger, clerk George Ann Puffinbarger, Jack Brayshaw, and Mayor Paul Long. Councilman John Reynolds was also at the meeting, but councilmen Gene Smith and Lonzie Rigbsy were ill.

The actual function of Williamsport's proposed waste treatment plant as well as the aesthetics and location of the plant were discussed at length Wednesday in a public meeting between villagers, councilmen, and a professional engineer from the consulting firm of Burgess & Niple, Ltd.

The estimated $1.5 million facility, which will service the 350 village households and allow expansion for about 150 more, could be operational as early as late 1976, engineer Albert C. Seiler said.

The site of the facility, on 22 acres of village-owned land adjacent to Deer Creek, as well as the actual process proposed, have been approved by both the Ohio and United States Environmental Protection Agencies, he said.

What remains before construction can begin is submission of the final plans to assure that preliminary drafts were followed. These plans should be ready for study by early Spring of next year, he said. The collection system schematic hasn't been planned yet.

The environmental agencies must approve the plans, he said, because the village has applied for a grant that would fund 75 per cent of the construction costs. Remainder of the building and operation of the system will be paid by the village.

Site of the proposed treatment plant is a 22-acre plot of village-owned land located between Yates Ave. and Deer Creek.

The heart of the facility must be constructed on the hillside there to keep it from flood plain encroachment. And it must be far enough south from the village water well field to assure no contamination of the supply.

The proposed aeration treatment

Consumers Get 2 Hot Lines

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio consumers with complaints about products and services soon may have two state hot line telephones instead of one.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown is hiring 10 more investigators and adding a new hot line that apparently will duplicate an existing setup in the Department of Commerce's consumer protection division.

Brown a Democrat, had little trouble persuading the state Controlling Board—dominated by his party 4-3—that the consumer division under GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes is floundering.

The board dipped into emergency funds and gave the attorney general $254,000 to pay for the expansion within his consumer frauds division. At the same time, it turned down Commerce Director J. Gordon Peltier's request for $897,000 to fund the old consumer division through June 30, 1977.

Peltier, one of Rhodes' more controversial appointees, angrily denied allegations that the Rhodes administration wanted to play down consumer complaint activities. He said he intends to keep them going in his department "as I'm required to do under the law."

The director referred to the 1972 Consumer Protection Act, approved during the administration of former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan. It stipulates that the department and the attorney general are to share the investigation of complaints, with the attorney general following up on initial investigations in which a violation of the statute is indicated, the director said.

Peltier said "it's illegal" for the attorney general to undertake initial investigations and to duplicate services already provided by his department.

Dwight C. Pettay Jr., Brown's second assistant, disagreed. "We feel that we have every right to do what we've been doing all along, since 1972," he said. Brown's consumer frauds section, including the expanded hot line, have 27 employees when the 10 investigators are added.

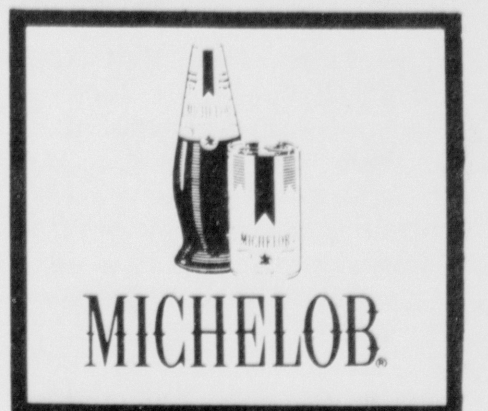

Peltier said he was forced to lay off half of the 22-member consumer division staff because the Democratic legislature denied his $897,000 budget request. But he said five or six employees of other divisions are helping out, and that he has borrowed $80,000 thus far to keep the hot line open and the office going.

Peltier, whose appointment eked through the Democratic Senate earlier this year by a single vote, said he doesn't know yet where he will get funds to operate the division. He said he plans to discuss the problem with Rhodes.

A Page Of Opinion

Nudging Open The Door

The mere fact that the United States Senate took a vote on possible deregulation of natural gas shows that the big energy companies are continuing their drumbeat for wide open pricing policies.

There appears little question that natural gas is going to cost more, but the question remains as to how much more. All indications are that the price would triple if controls were removed.

The supporters of the move claim the added cash is needed to develop more gas sources.

Detractors claim the companies make plenty of money now, are developing and capping wells to wait for the price spiral, and make enough money inside states where there are no controls now.

There are two important points to remember in the dispute. Number one, no one in authority knows for sure how much natural gas is available. There have been many indications that the major firms have deliberately underestimated and underreported reserves to provoke a panic atmosphere for gas at any price.

Number two, despite all the cries of energy crisis and shortages, it is questionable if there is a capacity shortage now. It appears generally conceded that money lies at the root of the struggle.

So, just remember, if you lose your job and have a cold home, it is not because there is no gas available. The gas is there. You will just not be able to get any unless you knuckle under and pay the price.

Acropolis To Get Costly Facelift

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The Acropolis, the 2,500-year-old shrine to the glory of ancient Greece, is getting help from home and abroad in a major face-lifting effort described as "the world's greatest marble restoration operation."

Prof. George Dontas, Greece's director of antiquities, said Tuesday the government has appropriated $1.6 million for repair work, and a UNESCO team is due soon to discuss the work and further funds.

Dontas said the second international Antiquity Preservation Congress, to be held in Athens next year, is expected to approve additional foreign technical and economic assistance for the project.

The historical and architectural gems on the ancient hill have been left in ruins by the ravages of war, time, foreign occupation and looters. The Parthenon, the temple to the goddess Athena built between 447 and 432 B.C., was used as living quarters for prostitutes in the 3rd century B.C. and as a gunpowder magazine during the Ottoman occupation.

Now cracks and erosion threaten the ruins.

The limestone hill has open underground rifts and caves, seeping water and cracks and fissures from earthquakes, lesser earth movements and temperature changes. The National Geological and Metal Ore Research Institute is preparing a program of remedies.

Metal supports placed inside and outside the columns have expanded and contracted, damaging the stone they were supposed to protect. Dontas said they probably will be replaced by supports in which costly noncorrosive titanium will be a major component.

Temporary wooden supports will also be erected. Other threats to the marble are erosion by polluted air and rain water, photochemical reactions provoked by neon lighting, vibration from aircraft flying over the area and the shoes of the 2 million tourists who visit the hill annually.

The government three years ago had wooden planks laid on the Propylae, or entrance to the hill, and three months ago it barred visitors from the interior of the Parthenon.

Five months ago, the government concluded an all-out effort was necessary and appointed rescue committees. Dontas said that so far they have concentrated on locating the danger spots.

The fight to save the Acropolis and its monuments "will be like a delicate operation to save an aging celebrity in need of specialized treatment," Dontas said. "False diagnosis could be fatal after serious mistakes already committed in the past."

Topographers, geologists, engineers, sculptors, chemists and even gamma-ray studies are being used "to establish a thorough file on every single piece of marble on the Acropolis," he continued.

"Such a task of marble restoration has never been faced anywhere in the world, at least on such a scale."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For many years there has been debate about the efficiencies of bigness as they apply to business. Now there's a similar argument about cities.

Those who maintain bigness is good argue that as volume increases the per-unit cost decreases.

Advocates of smallness claim bigness is accompanied by a lessened sense of personal responsibility, a greater demand for ancillary services, and administrative problems almost impossible to overcome.

The argument cannot be reduced to those extremes, but in the case of the cities, and at least superficially, smallness seems to win.

"Surprisingly, the figures show that smaller cities are the most economical with taxpayers' funds," says Bob Brown, executive director of the nonpartisan Tax Foundation.

Brown points to figures gathered from government and private sources that indicate cities under 50,000 population spent an average of $158.32 a year per person for municipal services in fiscal 1973.

The compilation showed spending rose in increments almost equal to increases in the size of cities. For cities in the 300,000-499,999 category, expenditures were $327.84. For cities of 1 million-plus, $681.14.

And then there is New York City. Its per capita expenditures were $1,223.68 in 1973, and most likely have risen substantially since then. But even that wasn't the highest figure; Washington came in with that, a total of $1,588.86.

"It appears there is no such thing as the 'large economy size' city," Brown says.

Public welfare is the biggest expenditure of cities having a population in excess of 1 million. In 1973 they averaged $135.08 per capita. The figure for all cities was $25.86.

The nation's largest cities spent $127.52 per capita on education. For cities in the 500,000-999,999 category, the expenditure was half that. And for all municipalities it averaged only $45.83.

The biggest cities spent $62.82 on police protection, although the average of all municipalities was about half that. There were relatively small differences in the amounts spent on fire protection.

Next came hospitals followed by housing and urban renewal with the next largest spending category for the 1 million-plus cities. The biggest cities spent $36.69 for housing, against an over-all average of $12.70.

Interest on the general debt was another big factor in budgets of the biggest cities. They spent $31.66 per capita in 1973, almost double the figure for cities in the half-million to million category.

Health was another big item. The biggest cities spent $18.02, compared with a national average of $5.14, and only 79 cents in cities of less than 50,000 population.

In categories such as financial administration, general control, libraries, parks and recreation, the distinctions between big and small were less distinct. In fact, the biggest cities spent less than the average on parks and recreation.

Larger cities obviously offer more cultural, educational, civic, health and other services than do the small cities.

This question remains: Are the smaller cities spending too little?

One of the first English traders to settle in the Ohio country was a Pennsylvanian, George Groghan, who established stores on the Tuscarawas, the Cuyahoga and Sandusky Rivers in the 1740's.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Oct. 2, the 275th day of 1975. There are 90 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1919, President Woodrow Wilson suffered a stroke, completely paralyzing the left side of his body.

On this date:

In 1780, the British officer who negotiated Benedict Arnold's attempt to surrender West Point, Major John Andre, was hanged as a spy.

In 1804, the people of England were being mobilized to resist invasion by Napoleon Bonaparte.

In 1869, the Indian nationalist leader, Mohandas Gandhi, was born.

In 1889, the first Pan American Conference was held in Washington.

In 1941, in World War II, German armies launched an all-out drive against Moscow.

In 1967, the first Black to sit on the U.S. Supreme Court, Thurgood Marshall, was sworn in.

Ten years ago: Indonesia's President Sukarno made a broadcast in Jakarta calling for restoration of order after a thwarted Communist-led attempt to overthrow the Indonesian government.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon received an enthusiastic reception on a visit to Madrid, Spain.

One year ago: The U.S. House of Representatives sharply cut the transitional funds requested for Nixon's return to private life.

Today's birthdays: Comedian Groucho Marx is 80 years old. Writer and film critic Rex Reed is 35.

Thought for today: There is one thing stronger than all the armies in the world, and that is an idea whose time has come — Victor Hugo, French writer, 1802-1885.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, a British supply ship bound for Boston, the Prince George, was seized when it entered the Portsmouth, N.H. harbor by mistake.

Local Democrats allegedly foiled an attempt of the Young Republican Club to promote their party candidate here as representative to the Ohio Legislature through a minute telephone campaign gimmick. The Dems were accused of calling the number and leaving the phone off the hook. Rather than a political message, phoned received nothing more than a busy signal, disrupting the complete effort.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My friends and I have been smoking pot for four years, through high school and most of college. Not one in the group has ever had signs of the effects that you and others write about. Why don't you leave us alone?

Miss H. M., III.

Dear Miss M.:

As a physician interested in the welfare of my patients and my readers, I cannot "leave you alone" without feeling remiss in my responsibility.

I am afraid that your small group of "statisticians" cannot use their experience to compare with the scientific material on marijuana that exists today.

Furthermore, you are not yet able to tabulate what the future may hold for you.

My antipathy to marijuana is based on solid evidence that it is a harmful and dangerous drug. Let me quote from a recent study report in the journal of the American Medical Association. The authors, Dr. Harold Kolansky and Dr. William T. Moore, of the University of Pennsylvania, say:

"The physician should not be apathetic about the current marijuana epidemic. By familiarizing himself with the results and potentials of marijuana's toxicity, he is in a uniquely effective position to act as the spearhead in a coordinated community effort to prevent the extension of the cannabis (marijuana) epidemic."

These studeis substantiate the fact that dangerous bodily changes, particularly within the brain, can result from smoking the drug.

Even occasional use of the drug, "just to be sociable," can blunt the reflexes, alter the sense of timing and depth perception, which can make automobile driving extremely hazardous for the driver and others.

The sense of tranquility that may accompany this can be risky. Spans of attention are reduced, along with the inability to make objective, well-balanced decisions.

Marijuana is a drug — a potentially dangerous drug — that undeniably affects the body tissue and psychological stability.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH . . . People on a restricted salt intake must remember that carbonated drinks contain salt.

Minister Objects To Printing Pact

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A tentative agreement by Dayton Press, Inc. — formerly McCall's — to print the Hustler men's magazine has brought strong objections from a group of local Southern Baptist ministers.

Representatives of the pastors' conference of the Greater Dayton Association of Southern Baptists voted Tuesday to write to company officials to express their opposition.

The group, which represents 75 churches and 27,000 area Baptists, also will encourage individual pastors to write to the firm.

"We're a little upset that a company like this that has been such a tremendous influence in the community, provided so many jobs and done such good, would stoop this low," said the Rev. Orville Griffin, superintendent of missions for the group.

The Rev. Mr. Griffin called the Columbus-based magazine "pornographic and lewd" and said his group thinks Dayton Press' commitment to print it is "another step downward for our society."

Larry Flynt, publisher of the magazine, announced recently he is considering moving printing of the monthly publication from New York to Dayton Press.

Charles D. Aikman, president of Dayton Press, confirmed the tentative agreement and said a final contract depends on the firm's "ability to produce the quality he desires."

But Aikman said he doesn't think the company will have any trouble winning the threeyear, $30 million contract.

Another company spokesman said firm officials expected a lot of adverse publicity about the agreement, but added "it's business."

"As far as we know, it (Hustler magazine) is legal, it's sold on the newsstands, it's mailed through the mail," he said. "What else can we do?"

The Rev. Mr. Griffin said the pastors first got upset when church members who work at the firm expressed concern about working on the magazine.

He said company officials are "putting the men in a bad position of having to decide between their jobs and their Christian principles."

2 Arrested For Robbery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Two men were arrested early today in connection with the abduction of a General Motors executive's wife and three of their children Monday in Ann Arbor, Mich., according to FBI officials.

John Todd Szywnelski, 18, was arrested at 3:55 a.m. today in the Cleveland bus station, according to Edward Hegarty, assistant special agent in charge of the FBI's Cleveland division.

Kenneth J. Royce, 18, was arrested by police in Edgerton, Ohio, after he was stopped on a highway, officials said.

The FBI said a "substantial" amount of money was recovered with the two men.

Gas Main Leaks At Ohio City

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Erie-Lackawanna railroad traffic was halted through the Village of Ohio City near here late Tuesday when a gas main began leaking. Officials feared that a passing train might touch off an explosion.

Firemen closed the line until Western Ohio Gas Co. crews could repair it.

It was 10 years ago last Aug. 21 that a passing train touched off an explosion of a leaking propane gas line at Elgin City, seven miles east, killing a young girl and injuring several members of her family.

5 Subcompact Car Offered By Ford

A new subcompact car model, the Pinto Pony MPG estimated by EPA at 38 miles per gallon on its highway cycle, will go on sale Friday at Jim Houseman Ford, 586 N. Court St. along with other 1976 model Ford cars and trucks.

Houseman said the new model is "our price and fuel economy leader for 1976 and will hold its own against any shape or size of car, foreign or domestic. It is America's lowest sticker priced domestically produced automobile and the back seat comes at no extra charge."

The Pinto Pony MPG is a four-passenger, two-door sedan with a four-cylinder, 2.3 liter overhead-cam engine of proven reliability, a four speed manual transmission and a 3 to 1 rear-axle ratio. It will be sold with a limited number of options.

"When official EPA test results are announced, we expect the 49-state version of the Pinto Pony MPG will be rated at 38 mpg on the highway cycle and 25 mpg on the city cycle," Houseman said.

"This is a real value for the money car with strong unit-body construction that puts more steel around its passengers than its newest competitor. It also has a wider track, a 92 horsepower engine, precise rack and pinion steering and a wider interior," Houseman concluded.

What If Guest Objected To Wedding?

DEAR ABBY: An item in your column brought up this question: During a marriage ceremony, when the person who officiates says, "If anyone is present who knows a reason why this couple should not be wed, let him speak now or forever hold his peace," what would happen if someone were to speak up with a reason? Would the wedding take place? Or would it be stopped right then and there?

Has anyone ever attended a wedding when someone voiced an objection? D.N. AND J.C. AT BSU

DEAR D. AND J.: I've seen it only in "B" movies, but if such an incident has actually occurred, I'm sure that someone out there will write in. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Thank God I've got you to talk to because I couldn't tell this to anyone else.

I am scared half out of my mind. I think there must be something terribly wrong with me. I am afraid I am going crazy.

I am afraid of being around people anymore because when someone says something to me, I wonder why they said it. What I mean is, I have this feeling that people say one thing to me and really mean something else.

I have a dull headache over one eye all the time. Sometimes it throbs and throbs. My teachers think I'm faking, and my mother is sick of hearing me gripe about it, so I just keep quiet. I shake a lot and cry when I'm alone.

Now that I've told you, I feel better, but I know it's going to happen again. Please help me. I am 15.

AFRAID

DEAR AFRAID: Show your mother this column and ask her to please take you to a doctor. If she refuses, take it to your teacher, your principal or school nurse. You need professional help. Write again soon, dear, and please include your name and address. I care.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married almost five years. We bought matching wedding bands, which we both wore at the time.

I noticed a few months ago that he has been leaving his band at home. He does office work, so it can't be that it's a hazard at work.

I mentioned it once or twice, and he said the band gives him a little rash. I know that the rash goes away in a day or two because my ring sometimes did the same to me.

My question is: Do I have reason to feel hurt? And should I mention it to him again, or should I just take mine off, too, and see how he likes it?

HURT

DEAR HURT: The word from here is: Don't feel hurt, don't mention it to him again and don't take yours off "to see how he likes it." That's childish. Maybe he's gained a few pounds, and it's not as comfortable as it used to be.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED IN DAYTON, OHIO: Please, please tell your mother TODAY that you think you might be pregnant. She will know what to do. No girl should have a baby at age 13.

Pickaway Senior Citizens Plan Hospitality Center For Guests During Pumpkin Show

Pickaway Senior Citizens held an all-day meeting Thursday at Trinity Lutheran Parish House. There were over 108 members and guests attending. Blanche Kerns, president, conducted the business meeting. Guests introduced were Margaret Walker and Elizabeth Arledge.

Members having birthdays in September were: Lawrence Hoover, Carroll Reid, Eunice Shy, Ruth Smith, Florence Spangler, Almada Hill, Mary Stein and Dwight Smith. Ray Beery played the piano and "Happy Birthday" was sung. Madge Tagg was chosen the Senior Citizen of the month.

Vera Saunders, program coordinator announced that 60 blood-pressure of the members were taken by Ann Remy. She said that the Hospitality Center at the Community Methodist Church would be held again at the Pumpkin Show for out-of-town Senior Citizen guests. Volunteers were enlisted to serve each day. Many of the Senior Citizens are helping in the Community Fund Drive as the Center is a recipient of the funds.

The local banks and savings and loan representatives explained the advantages of the elderly to sign up for their Social Security or SSI checks, other retirement income, certificates of deposit or stock dividends mailed direct by presenting their Social Security number or other identification to process as each individual so desires in checking or savings accounts. The purpose is for safety, time saving, and not to misplace the checks

Senior Citizens Attend Ball Game, Plan October Tour

A busload of Senior Center members attended the baseball game in Cincinnati on Saturday. They left the Center at 11 a.m., stopped at the scenic overlook rest area near King's Island for lunch. After the game, a dinner stop was made at Duff's Smorgasbord in Wilmington.

Those going on the trip were: Mary Stein, Marvane and Forrest Rinehart, Russell Yapple, John Kentz, Golda Paxton, Bryan Downs, Ellen Camp, Mary and Ed McClure, Mary and Ross Hamilton, Blanche Kerns, Marie Wilson.

Raymond Goodman, Annabelle Grubb, Mary E. Wolfe, Gladys Valentine, Randolph Wolfe, Margaret Ater, Marion Hinkle, Mary Bozman, Galina Ivascu, Viola Rife, Faye

Father-Son Banquet Held Sunday At Lutheran Church

Trinity Lutheran Church Women hosted a Father-Son Bicentennial Banquet Sunday in the Parish House. Toast-master, Gladden Troutman, welcomed 73 male members of the congregation to the dinner. Pastor Carl Zehner gave the invocation.

A patriotic theme set the tone of the evening. Red, white and blue streamers and candles decorated the tables and miniature American flags marked each place setting. Truman Eberly led the group in the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Pledge of Allegiance.

The program continued with Richard Penn giving the fathers' viewpoint. His son, Steve, responded with "A Son Speaks." Special bicentennial music was sung by the father-son sextet of Larry and Jon Blum, Richard and Brad Fisher and Pastor and Robert Zehner, accompanied by Lyn Fisher at the piano.

Cpt. William Meyers, U.S.A.F., was guest speaker. His topic, "The Air Force Through The Years" featured a movie on Air Force history followed by slides and commentary on current aircraft. His closing remarks were especially pertinent when he said, "Of the hundreds of youth I have worked with, 99 per cent attained a high level of excellence; most of the remaining 1 per cent had very little good to say about their fathers."

Awards were presented to 83 year old Harry Lane for being the oldest attending, to 17 month old Robert Parrott for being the youngest, to Bill Hulise for being the youngest grandfather, and to Richard Fisher for having a birthday closest to July 4.

The program closed with prayer by Pastor Zehner and the group sang "America."

Girl Scout Service Unit Meets Wednesday

Tri Plains Girl Scout Service Unit will hold its first meeting of the fall season 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at Village Methodist Church in Ashville.

Betty Rodgers, guest speaker, will use as her topic "Volunteerism."

Guild 45 To Meet

Berger Hospital Guild 45 will meet 8 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Jerry Walters, 981 Lynwood Ave. The evening will be spent working on bazaar items.

that come through the mail.

The local banks and savings and loans representatives were: First National Bank, John Fuller and Susie Hollar; Second National Bank, William Bennett; Third National Bank, Joe Tomlinson; Savings Bank, Larry Priest, and Equitable Savings and Loan, Bonnie Hildebrand and Floyd Wolfe.

Pat McGinnis and Mary K. Temple of the Pumpkin Show Baking Committee explained that a special division for Senior Citizens in using their mothers' or old recipes has been arranged, and encouraged members to enter the bake-off.

Clarence Radcliffe showed slides of Japan taken while he and his wife, Mary were visiting there. They visited their Lions Club exchange Japanese daughter, Yumi and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiroshi Noda for 30 days at Tsu on the Island of Homshu, 300 miles south of Tokyo.

The slides showed the culture of the religious shrines which have Gods to almost everything and where anyone can kneel to pray. The shrines and their gardens were beautiful architectural in their landscaping. Mr. Radcliffe also showed the Fuji Mountain and the areas surrounding it. The land belongs to the people for them to enjoy in the outdoors but space to live is very crowded.

Fausnaugh, Melba and Donald Wolf, Helen Kuhlwein, Mary Catherine and H. O. Clark.

Goldie and Harold Thompson, Yette Dudeson, Dewey Downs, Viola Strawser, Josephine and Cyrus Dille, Ina and Albert Marshall, Maxine Krisher, and Twyla and Mert Lorentz, tour guides.

During the dinner hour, the group honored Josephine Dille by singing "Happy Birthday" to her.

The next scheduled trip will be Oct. 30 via Greyhound Bus to the Hocking Hills Lodge for lunch, then a tour to McArthur, Piketon and Hillsboro where the group will be the guests of the Highland County Senior Citizens for refreshments and some entertainment by their Men's Chorus. Returning will be through Washington C. H. to Circleville.

The group will leave the center at 10 a.m. and return between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Reservations will be accepted beginning Oct. 6. For more details, call the center, 474-4916. Full payment will be expected with reservations. If all seats are not reserved by Oct. 23, non-members will be accepted.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Earl Smith, Miss Elizabeth Tolbert and Mrs. Wolf, concerning bulbs for spring, their selection, planting and forcing.

Correction

The names of bridesmaids in the wedding of Miss Jennifer Lynn Price and Mr. Douglas Alan Moore were inadvertently omitted in Tuesday's edition of The Herald.

Bridesmaids were Miss Suzanne Schlegler and Miss Donna Lucas. Miss Paula Kocher was junior bridesmaid. They were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried brown wicker baskets filled with white, yellow and rust colored mums, and baby's breath. The attendants wore earrings, gifts of the bride.

School Chief Stages Walkathon

PIQUA, Ohio (AP) — School Supt. Duane Bachman keeps in touch. Almost every weekday evening, he teams up with a principal and a Parent-Teacher organization official to walk about town, talking in homes or in front lawns.

Its his neighborhood walk program. Each day, he dials his office telephone to talk to a parent with children in one of his schools. The topic is anything that concerns the parents. Its his "tollphone" project. Bachman, 39, explained his efforts to keep in touch with the people he serves this way: "A guy once told me you don't have to sell the schools to the people—they already own them. That's kind of a watchword I've got. We're talking to the landlords, so we ought to know a little about what they are thinking." Bachman became superintendent of Piqua schools this term after eight years as administrator of the Bath Township Local School District in Allen County.

Bachman said he wanted to be a superintendent from the time he entered education.

"I made notes—some of the gimmicks I wanted to try," he said.

"But this is the first opportunity I've had. Up in Bath, there wasn't a community to walk in. You'd have to walk down a country road."

He said he adopted the neighborhood walk program because as a school administrator, "I don't feel the people should have to come to me. I think it is my obligation to go to them."

People are often surprised when the casually dressed Bachman walks up, sticks his hand out and introduces himself to the people around. One man apologized for his attire.

"The people have really been receptive," he said. "No one's kicked us out of their home or yard yet," he said. "We haven't gone up to just people we knew but to anybody we saw and introduced ourselves."

That includes people who don't have any children in school.

"I'm here to meet people and if you're a taxpayer, I'm interested in you," he recalled telling an elderly woman. "That really made her eyes light up."

"All this really is communication," Bachman said. "That's the part of the school game I like most. You know, I don't think school people as a whole have done as much listening as we probably should."

Forest Industry Talks Stagnating

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP) — Jack Munro, western regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, says current talks with British Columbia forest companies are in danger of collapsing unless the industry "gets realistic, pretty quickly."

Munro's comment Tuesday, his first since the IWA began a special round of negotiations following a breakdown in talks by two striking pulp unions, came after the industry's introduction of the Hunting-Merritt shingle mill strike as an item for negotiations.

The companies have made numerous attempts to include resolution of the Hunting-Merritt dispute in master contract negotiations with the IWA.

Labor Minister Bill King told special mediator Henry Hutcheon of the British Columbia Supreme Court that the Hunting-Merritt dispute was not to be included in his report.

Justice Hutcheon in his report on the British Columbia forest industry dispute, however, wrote that he shared the view of the forest companies that the IWA negotiating committee must be given the right to negotiate the terms on behalf of all its members.

Munro said the industry introduced the strike again despite the companies' previous statement that they are only willing to discuss clarification of items contained in the Hutcheon report.

"They know we're not prepared to talk about Hunting-Merritt," said Munro. "They're really straining negotiations."

"The Hutcheon report gets rid of Hunting-Merritt and I think it's bad faith for the companies to introduce it. We're just not accepting it. I think that it's 35-cent politics."

The companies have said they will not exceed the Hutcheon report, which calls for a two-year contract with an increase of $1.55 an hour on a base rate of $5.10, plus continuance of the 24 cents an hour cost of living adjustment.

Coastal IWA members rejected the report by a vote of 51.2 per cent, while interior members voted 84 per cent to approved it.

The Pulp, Paper and Woodworkers of Canada and the Canadian Paperworkers Union rejected the report by 84 per cent.

"The industry must get realistic pretty quickly or we might as well go home," said Munro.

The $3 billion-a-year forest industry has been at a virtual standstill since the pulp unions went on strike July 16 and subsequently escalated their picketing to most of the IWA operations in the province.

The unions have asked for a one-year agreement.

Crime Busters Hampered By Shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) — More and more states are forming strike forces to combat thriving crime syndicates, but many state officials say they're hampered by a shortage of money and talent.

About 400 federal, state and local law enforcement officials are sharing their experiences at a National Conference on Organized Crime sponsored by the Justice Department today through Saturday.

A major part of the discussion centers on strike forces, the special teams of investigators and prosecutors used to build cases against syndicate gambling, drug trafficking, loan-sharking and fraud schemes.

The Justice Department launched the strike-force technique eight years ago and now operates 17 throughout the United States.

A recent survey by the National Association of Attorneys General showed that an increasing number of states are establishing similar teams, usually under the direction of the state attorney general.

Twenty-three states and Puerto Rico now have special teams of investigators and prosecutors for organized crime, said the association's June report distributed to conference participants.

The states are Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Rhode Island, Texas, Utah and Wisconsin.

Five of them have been established in the past three years.

Virtually all have been launched with federal funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration which presently is spending more than $10 million in partial support of 19 state projects against organized crime.

The association report said many state officials worry about where they'll get money to continue the operation once federal grants end.

"Several states report negatively on the chances of state support," and "one project director reports that his state legislature is afraid of the organized crime unit and may not fund it," the report said.

In addition to budget, the state strike force officials have found that "one of the most difficult problems" is recruiting talented and trustworthy investigators and prosecutors with experience in outwitting mobsters.

Nix Appeal By Gephart

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Personnel Board of Review Wednesday rejected an appeal by the former chief of the Dayton Area Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation who was fired last April for insubordination.

The board ruled that John L. Gephart, who had worked for the bureau since 1962, was insubordinate when he refused to discuss the problems of his office with his superiors in the Rehabilitation Services Commission.

Gephart was ousted near the conclusion of a month-long controversy surrounding his office which grew out of a Dayton Journal Herald investigation first reported last December.

The series cited numerous cases of Xenia tornado victims who had received disaster aid but were unknowingly classified by the bureau as successfully rehabilitated clients, helping to meet a state-imposed quota of success for that agency.

Gephart maintained his superiors were fully aware of what was happening in Xenia and he was not responsible for the quota system.

additional 150 for expansion.

If village growth proceeds at a more rapid pace, additional units may be added to the plant in a lateral line along the hillside.

In simple terms, sewage from residences will be piped to the plant by means of a collection system. Its organic matter will be broken down by bacteria sustained in oxygen, and the treated and safe effluent will be pumped into Deer Creek.

The sewage will enter the plant in the center of two concrete settling tanks. It will be treated with chlorine and oxygen.

Solid remnants of the process will be placed in sludge beds, where, when dried, it can be removed as humus material.

The facility, located about 380 feet from the closest residence, will be hidden by the hillside itself, and architectural mounds. The design of the plant will also serve to hide it from view.

Odor will be controlled by means of a charcoal filtering system.

In the event of mechanical failure, all of the sewage can be treated in one silo. A diesel-driven generator will be supplied for power failures.

The main pumping station will be built "as maintenance-free as possible," Seiler said. It will have masonry sidewalls.

Details of the proposed collection system are still incomplete.

Alleys in the village will be used, Seiler said, where feasible. Apparently water and gas lines are currently buried in the alleys.

ADC Data Shows Drop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For the fifth consecutive month, the number of recipients under the Aid to Dependent Children program decreased in September, the state Department of Public Welfare said Wednesday.

The welfare department said 553,664 persons received funds under the program in September, compared to 566,099 in August. The number of recipients have dropped since April when 570,067 persons were given aid.

The reduction is credited to a complete review of cases by county departments requested by the state welfare department in May.

The review disclosed eligibility errors and played a major part in reduction of the caseload.

Cox Heads Land Use Committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Kenneth Cox, D-41 Barberton, has been elected chairman of the newly formed Land Use Review Committee created by this year's legislature.

The panel is charged with making a thorough study of land use in Ohio to determine how it can be made more efficient. It is to make recommendations to the General Assembly no later than Jan. 31, 1977.

Cox, former Barberton mayor, said the group intends to conduct meetings throughout the state during the 16-month investigation.

The legislature appropriated $275,000 to finance the project.

Woman Hurt Cutting Lawn

Mrs. Margaret Mosely, 34, Route 4, was treated at Berger Hospital for lacerations to her foot she sustained while cutting her lawn, 2:20 p.m. Wednesday.

The power mower became lodged on a mound of dirt which caused it to jump backwards landing on Mrs. Mosley's right foot.

Deputy Bill Dountz investigated the personal injury accident.

Hirohito, Ford Hold Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan's Emperor Hirohito formally opened a two-week state visit today by hailing the complete turnabout in Japanese-American relations since the "tragic interlude" of World War II.

The emperor was accorded full military honors at a White House ceremony that signified a new level of harmony between the two Pacific allies.

"Our people withstood the challenges of one tragic interlude, when the Pacific Ocean, symbol of tranquility, was instead a rough and stormy sea, and have built today unchanging ties of friendship and goodwill," the emperor said in prepared remarks.

"I feel immeasurably gratified by this happy development, and look forward with great anticipation to the future of our relationship."

With the emperor was his wife, Empress Nagako. After two days of meetings with President Ford, they will travel to five other major American cities and several smaller ones.

The emperor's U.S. visit, which began with a two-day rest in Williamsburg, Va., puts the final seal on the restoration of Japanese-American friendship after World War II enmity.

As the Japanese see it, no higher tribute could be paid to the United States than an imperial visit.

Hirohito, the world's largest reigning monarch, has seen Japanese-American relations come full circle from a bitter wartime rivalry 30 years ago, to a seven-year American occupation of Japan and finally to the present era of peace and friendship.

In the emperor's name, 1.5 million Japanese went to their deaths in World War II. At the time the Japanese Imperial Army surrendered, he accepted full responsibility for Japan's war policies even though historians say he had little involvement with the conduct of the war.

As in Williamsburg, the security measures for the imperial couple will be unusually strict.

Japanese officials have been jolted by apparent attempts on President Ford's life and have refrained from disclosing the times of the couple's travels.

The trip has its origins in a November 1974 visit to Tokyo by Ford, the first incumbent president ever to undertake such a journey.

In accepting Ford's invitation for a reciprocal visit, the emperor fulfills a 50-year wish to see the United States. He is the first Japanese monarch to set foot on the American mainland. The emperor is the 124th in an imperial line dating back almost 14 centuries.

Political discussion was not on the White House agenda, in keeping with the completely ceremonial nature of the emperor's reign.

After meeting with Ford, the emperor plans an afternoon visit to the Natural History Museum. The empress will visit an art gallery. A state dinner at the White House also is planned.

Deer Hunting Permits Readied

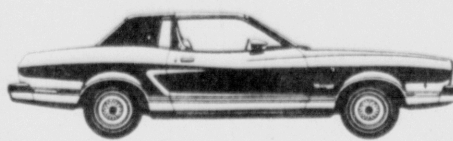

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Permits for the 1975 deer hunting season are now available at most hunting license agencies, the state wildlife division says.

The permits are $10.50. In addition, deer hunters must have a 1975 hunting license. The hunting season varies in different areas of the state.

The zone program of hunting seasons has been so successful that the Ohio deer population is now over 80,000. He said it was the largest recorded population in the state's history.

The season will be launched Oct. 10 with the longbow season.

Funeral services were held last Thursday in Logan for Hubert D. Lappen, well known Hocking County attorney and former prosecutor, who died in Grant hospital following along illness.

He was the son of Mrs. Frieda Lappen of Logan and the late Charles Lappen. The family lived in Laurelville for many years where Hubert graduated from high school in 1928.

He was married to the former Evelyn Barton who died April 11. Besides his father he was predeceased by his brother Wallace who died in 1973.

Survivors are his three children, Daniel Laepen of Akron; Craig Laepen of Manchester, Conn. and Mrs. Robert (Ann) Flanagan of W. Hartford, Conn.; his mother of Logan and his sister Mrs. Joe (Charlote) Trundle of Warrenton, Va.

Interment was made in the Oak Grove Cemetery, Logan.

Mrs. Trundle has been seriously ill and was not able to come to Ohio for her brother's funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Marty Eveland (Kindra Tatman) are parents of a daughter Marcy Kay, born Sept. 24 in Lancaster Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Eveland (only her hairdresser knows if June has any grey hairs since becoming a grandmother) of Laurelville and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tatman of near Tarlton.

Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Forest Wolf of Route 1, Laurelville, Mrs. Virgie Cox of Circleville, Mrs. Ora Tatman of Adelphi and Hubert Thompson of Route 2, Laurelville.

The local Boy Scout Troop enjoyed a trip to Cincinnati last Friday night where they saw the Cincinnati Reds and the Atlanta Braves play baseball. Those who attended were Tom Butts, John and David Henson, Carl Rise, Jamie Beglin, Trent Karshner, Chip and Jeff Zawacki. They were accompanied by their leader Charles Zawacki, Mr. and Mrs. David Lehman and son Troy and David Karshner.

Rally day and Christian Education Sunday was observed last Sunday at the Laurelville Trinity United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Jacob Lehman officiating during the dedication of teachers and leaders.

Lighting the candles were Debbie Woodson and Regina Sewell.

The call to worship was made by the Sunday School Superintendent Howard Egan. An organ and piano prelude was played by Mrs. Jean West at the organ and Mrs. Geneva Kempton at the piano.

Opening prayer was by Harry M. Ross and scripture was read by Dalton DeLong, both members of the young adult class.

Miss Frances McClelland read a tribute to the Rev. Lehman and his family. Later she gave an interesting history of the church. Three charter members are still living, Mrs. Ruth Armstrong Boecher of Columbus, Lana Williamson Dix and Alice Armstrong Morris of Pickaway Manor, Circleville.

Mrs. Morris was present for the Sunday morning service. The oldest living member although not a charter member is Mrs. Laura Whisler of Pickaway Manor who is 97.

The various classes and the teachers who took part in the program were Kindergarten class, Mrs. Woodson; primary class, Mrs. Dalton DeLong; combine youth class, Mrs. Shirley Littman; young adult class, Mr. Woodson; adult ladies class, Frances McClelland; les amies class, Margaret Chilcote; men's class, Merwin McClelland and Dow West.

The services closed with a prayer by Mr. Egan.

Mr. and Mrs. Damon Pontious and Carolyn Ebert were in Columbus Saturday to attend the wedding of Tamara Bouni and Michael R. Hobbs in the Central College Presbyterian Church. Later they attended the reception held at the St. Christopher Hall in Columbus.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bouni (Patty Allen) and the granddaughter of Mrs. Audrey Allen of Columbus and the late Ronald Allen.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Pontious and Mrs. Ebert visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tiburzio (Delores Allen) at their home in Columbus. Patty and Delores are neices of Mrs. Pontious.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Tatman of Fort Worth, Texas have been visiting his mother, Mrs. Loie Tatman, and his brothers and sisters in Ohio. Other visitors on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bohn (Ruth Ellen Tatman) and family of Lewistown, Pa. Visiting on Sunday with his mother, brother and sister-in-law, were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Tatman and son of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Poling were Saturday supper guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Poling in celebration of Becky's birthday. Sunday evening guests of the Polings were Mr. and Mrs. John Downs of Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Weaver (Lola Wharf) of Kettering were recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schroeder (Mildred Wharf) of Pike Street.

Mrs. Betty Perry and Miss Ruth Bowers of Tipp City spent the weekend at the Bowers family home in Laurelville.

Jackie Hedges of near South Bloomingville, who was badly burned when a spark ignited a can of gasoline he was holding, is a patient in the intensive care unit of University hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Taylor have returned from a week's vacation at Surf Side Beach, S. C. Mrs. Joan Hedderson and children of Chillicothe were Wednesday supper guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis (Bud) Swackhammer and children have moved into their newly built home west of Laurelville. Their property was formerly a part of the Filmore Hart farm. Mr. and Mrs. Winfred "Doc" Holiday have purchased and moved into the former Swackhammer home on Shriner Street.

Mrs. Lillie Rizer has been a patient in Berger Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Taylor spent Thursday night and Friday with their grandchildren Cindy, Jeff and Marcie Hedderson of Chillicothe.

Dick Karr visits every day with his brother, Iver (Bope) Karr, of Tarlton who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Alice Morris of Pickaway Manor, Circleville, was a guest on Sunday of her nephews and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Armstrong.

Mrs. Ruby Wharton of Columbus was a weekend guest of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Swepton.

The Saltcreek Town and Country Club will hold it's next meeting on Oct. 14 at the home of Beverly Gillum, Route 4. The club will have a bake sale at the White Hardware in Laurelville on Saturday.

Trousers Zipper Deflects Bullet

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Everytime bar owner Jared J. Florian zips up his trousers, he'll probably be thinking of the zipper that saved him from a serious injury.

Florian, 60, owner of the Back of the Track bar in Warrensville Heights, was shot by one of two men who stole $300 from the bar Wednesday, police said.

The bullet struck the zipper of Florian's trousers and was deflected to his right thigh, police said. Florian was treated and released from the hospital.

Farm Prices Show Hefty Gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by hefty gains for cattle and hogs, farm prices jumped 3 per cent last month to their highest average in a year and a half, according to the Agriculture Department.

The department's Crop Reporting Board said Tuesday that its index of prices farmers receive for what they produce rose to 193 per cent of its 1967 base between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15. A spokesman said that was the highest reading since March 1974.

But J. Dawson Ahalt, USDA staff economist, said he sticks by the department's earlier forecast that retail food prices will go up an average of 9 per cent in 1975, compared with gains of 14.5 per cent in each of the previous two years.

Further, Ahalt said, cattle prices probably will come down some this fall as more animals move to slaughter plants, thus dampening another round of soaring beef prices. Pork prices however, will continue high because of farmers holding down hog production.

The report said higher prices for milk, eggs and wheat also contributed to last month's farm price boost, more than offsetting declines for potatoes, corn and soybeans.

Prices farmers pay for things they use rose 1 per cent during the month and averaged 7 per cent above Sept. 15 of last year.

Meat animals as a group went up 4 per cent during the month and were 29 per cent above prices a year earlier. Beef cattle, at $34.60 per 100 pounds, rose $1.50 from mid-August. Hogs were up $2.50 and, at $58.50 per hundredweight, were the highest on record.

The average farm price of milk rose to $8.96 per 100 pounds, matching a record set in March 1974. The over-all dairy price index was up 6 per cent from August and was 12 per cent above Sept. 15 of last year.

Grain prices, which have been erratic lately because of uncertainty over the government's ban of sales to Russia and Poland, continued to indicate those effects in USDA's latest report.

Wheat rose 22 cents from mid-August to $4.11 a bushel, compared with $4.32 on Sept. 15 last year. The price, however, was up substantially from $2.92 a bushel in June, just before sales to Russia were disclosed.

Corn, on the other hand, dropped to $2.76 a bushel, down 19 cents from mid-August and 54 cents below a year earlier.

Soybean prices also declined to $5.32 a bushel from $5.80 in August. A year ago soybeans were $7.72 a bushel.

For potato farmers, the new report showed the bad news they already knew. Prices dropped to $4.23 per 100-pound bag, down $1.68 in one month but slightly more than their average of $4.05 on Sept. 15 last year.

Eggs, at a farm price of 55.8 cents a dozen, were up from 50.5 in August and averaged one cent more than they did a year before.

Cook Asks Veto On License Data

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Highway Safety Director Donald D. Cook asked Gov. James A. Rhodes Wednesday to keep information on organ transplants off of state driver's licenses.

Cook asked Rhodes to veto a bill which would allow drivers to note on their licenses if they have arranged to donate their eyes, kidneys or other organs upon death.

"I am reluctant to oppose this bill," Cook said in a letter to the governor. "It's like being against motherhood and for sin."

But Cook said the bill would cost too much money, establish a bad precedent, cause potential legal problems and unduly burden law enforcement officers.

Cook said if the bill becomes law, the department will have to scrap $104,543 in application forms which would be obsolete. The department also would have to spend $400,000 each year on new license cards, he said.

With donor information on the cards, he said, it would be impossible to refuse requests to list other information, such as data on diabetes, "resulting in an operator's license that eventually would become more of a catalog than a license."

Since Ohio has no legal definition of death, he said, the cards could cause legal problems for local police.

And in less-accessible counties, he said, the cards still would not solve the problem of getting the donors to a hospital capable of removing the organ before it deteriorates.

He said overall, the problems of organ transplants could overburden officers investigating traffic accidents who have other important duties to perform at the scene.

"I am in sympathy with the concept of securing anatomical donors," Cook said. "However, it is my belief that the operator's license is not the proper place for this information."

The bill, passed by the General Assembly earlier this year, is intended to allow hospitals to get the organs of accident victims quicker, before the organs deteriorate.

Gene Mauch Given Boot As Montreal Manager

MONTREAL (AP) — Last Wednesday night, as Gene Mauch strolled to a position near second base at Jarry Park, a deep-throated chorus of boos rose from the crowd.

It was Fan Appreciation Night and the Montreal fans demonstrated without question they did not appreciate the managing efforts of Mauch, who guided the Expos to an unspectacular fifth-place tie with Chicago in the National League's East Division.

"The reason I decided to come out here is that I knew a lot of you would get a kick out of it," Mauch told the crowd. "Now that you've had a kick out of it, I want to introduce to you for the last time...this season...a bunch of guys you're going to be cheering for a long, long time."

Mauch could have stopped his second sentence with "last time," because he will no longer be introducing Expos players to Montreal baseball fans.

A week after his hostile reception from Montreal's baseball fans, Mauch's career with the seven-year-old Expos is history. Mauch, 49, was fired Wednesday along with all of his coaches—pitching coach Cal McLish, third-base coach Dave Bristol, first-base coach Walt Hriniak, bullpen coach Jerry Zimmerman and part-time batting instructor Duke Snider.

"It was the worst thing they could do," said pitcher Steve Renko. "Gene Mauch is a super man and a super manager. I'll tell you one thing, he never ever put the blame on any of his players."

"I think they fired him to cover up for themselves. Fans booing him? Do they know as much about baseball as Gene Mauch?"

CHS Spikers Top Westfall

Circleville's girls volleyball teams, varsity and reserves, both defeated Westfall Wednesday on the Mustangs court to run their season records to 5-0.

The Tiger varsity captured the match in two straight games, 15-5, 16-14. Circleville led 12-4 in the second game when Westfall began a rally that finally evened the score at 14-14. But Sue Crist came through with two fine serves that gave the Tigers a two-point victory.

"Westfall is a talented team and well coached," Circleville coach Joy O'Brien stated. "It was a good match with a lot of good blocking and spiking."

The Tiger reserves dropped the first game to Westfall, 15-11, but bounced back to take the next two games, 15-1, 15-7.

Circleville couldn't maintain its serves in the first game and Westfall took advantage of it. The Tigers settled down in the second game and were trailing 4-7 in the third when Sue Stevenson came up with 11 straight serving points to clinch the victory.

Kathy Fanale, Rhonda Vinyard and Melissa Allison also turned in some fine serves for the Red and Black.

Circleville will be at home 4:30 p.m. today with Lancaster.

CHS Harriers Upend Logan

Circleville's cross country team came up with a very determined team effort on an extremely challenging course to down Logan 18-42.

Dave Uland captured first place with a fine time of 9:46 with Rusty Holbrook running a close second in 9:59.

Other Circleville finishers and times were: Tom Taylor, 4th, 10:06; Doug Baker, 5th, 10:07; Joel Baker, 6th, 10:10; Dave Holbrook, 8th, 10:17; Greg Lundberg, 10th, 10:29; Randy Speakman, 12th, 10:41; Richard Boulden, 16th, 11:52.

Circleville is now 4-2 and will be at Ross Southeastern 4:30 p.m. Tuesday with Bishop Flagnet and Zane Trace.

Cleveland Indians

Note $550,000 Loss

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Indians sustained $550,000 in losses this year, the American League team's stockholders were told Wednesday.

Ted Bonda, the team's executive vice president, said that although the final deficit won't be known until Oct. 31, the latest loss estimate brings to about $3 million the team's losses for the last four seasons.

Circleville Battles Greenfield Friday

It has been a year since the Circleville football team lost a game and Friday night the culprits who did the job will be coming into Tiger Stadium under the name of Greenfield McClain — Circleville is ready and waiting. The Red and Black gridders have compiled 10 straight wins since they dropped a 6-0 decision to Greenfield last year and will be looking for No. 11 Friday.

Greenfield has a good well balanced team and can not be taken lightly. They have a strong running attack and a passing game that will compliment the ground game.

They have a tough, hard nosed defense which operates from a 5-3-3 with varying alignment of the tackles and stunting on the part of the three linebackers. They will move into a seven diamond defense on the goal line.

"We were very pleased with the play of our offense in the first quarter against Madison Plains as they scored three touchdowns and rolled up 194 yards," coach Larry Cook commented. But our defensive was awesome as they held the Golden Eagles to minus six yards in the quarter.

"We had a chance to play everyone and were quite satisfied with the performances of our younger people."

"The South Central Ohio League, as it shapes up now, appears to be as strong and have the best balance since I have been at Circleville," Cook stated.

"Greenfield, Wilmington, Miami Trace, Washington C.H. are all tough and Hillsboro and Unioto appear to be improved over last year. It will take an outstanding football team with consistent performance to go through the league undefeated. We suffered a setback to Greenfield last year and have no intention of letting this happen again," Cook said.

Tigers awards for the Madison Plains game went to: Bryan Price, offensive lineman; Biff Bumgarner, offensive back; Tom Strawser, defensive lineman; Frank Merrill, defensive back; Dave Marshall, specialty team; Paul Heffelfinger, practice player.

In regard to be ranked No. 1 in the AP state poll Cook commented, "It is the dream of every high school coach at sometime in his career to have his team rated No. 1 in the state, and I am no exception. It not only brings pride but also a sense of humility."

"Much of the credit for this honor should go to my coaching staff, players and the loyal Circleville fans. Our young men have worked extremely hard and made the necessary sacrifices to make this honor possible. Our squad will look at this in the proper perspective and continue to play with the same enthusiasm, spirit and pride as they have in the past. The easiest of the two roads to travel is the one that takes you to the top — The toughest road is the one that keeps you there."

The offensive unit for Circleville will be: Tom Strawser, center; Bryan Price and Tim Hartinger, guards; Art Davis and Tom England, tackles; Tom McGuire, split end; Jeff Lackey, tight end; Brent Mancini, quarterback; Bill Mogan, fullback; Frank Merrill, wingback; Biff Bumgarner, tailback. On defense it will be: Bo Barthelmas, middle guard; Tom Strawser and Art Davis, tackles; Mearle Logan and Biff Bumgarner, ends; Tim Hartinger and Bill Mogan, linebackers; John Payne, Tiger man; Frank Merrill, 5-yard halfback; Brian Fath, strong safety; Brent Mancini, middle safety.

Girl Tigers Lose Tennis Match

Circleville's girls tennis team dropped a close 3-2 decision to visiting Unioto to run their season record to 2-3.

Sue Radcliff lost to Jackie Rahe, 6-1, 6-4; Ann Titus was defeated by Julia Davis, 6-3, 6-3; Kelly Steele beat Susan Kozar, 6-0, 6-3.

Laura Dowd and Rojanne Bowers lost to Kris Garrison and Peg Scholl, 6-4, 3-6, 7-6; Donna Milburn and Denise Crawford defeated Pat Allen and Janet Spangler, 6-0, 6-2.

Deanne Crawford, Ellen Yunker and Paula Tussing all won exhibition matches.

The Tigers will be at Logan 4:30 p.m. Thursday.

Ohio University Invades Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Ohio University, fresh from an impressive upset victory over Kent State, invades Minnesota Saturday in hopes of knocking over the Big Ten team.

The Bobcats, 3-0, rallied from a 21-7 deficit to defeat powerful Kent State 23-21 last week in a Mid American Conference game.

Minnesota, meanwhile, struggled to a 10-7 nonconference victory over Oregon, a team which has not won a game for more than a year.

"We have a chance to win and it's a great challenge and opportunity for our team," said Ohio Coach Bill Hess. "We know we're outmanned and out-sized going into this game."

Beating a Big Ten team would add much to Ohio University's football program. It lives under the shadow of imposing Ohio State, 75 miles up the road from Athens, Ohio.

Minnesota, 2-1, lost to Indiana in the season opener and then won two nonconference games over Oregon and Western Michigan to bolster Gopher confidence.

This will be the third meeting of the two schools. The first clash, in 1969, ended in a 35-35 tie. In 1970, the Gophers blasted the Bobcats 49-7.

Ohio's offense is keyed by quarterback Rick Lilienthal, a three-year letterman at wide receiver who won the signal calling job last spring. His favorite target is wide receiver Mike Green, who caught seven passes for 94 yards and two touchdowns against Kent State.

Doing most of the Bobcats' running will be Arnold Welcher, a 6-foot-2, 210-pound sophomore. He replaced senior tailback Dave Houseton in Ohio's first game this season performed so well that Houseton has had trouble getting back into the game.

Ohio's defense has been somewhat of a pleasant surprise, says defensive coach Joe Dean. Senior defensive end Steve Miller, who earned Mid American Conference player of the week honors after the Kent State game, has provided leadership for the young unit.

Miller tackled Kent State's punter in the end zone for the game-winning safety.

Minnesota probably will be at full strength for its last nonconference game.

Quarterback Tony Dungy, who runs very well, has improved his passing this year so the Gopher aerial attack poses a threat. Dungy has J. Dexter Pride and Bubby Holmes in the backfield to run the ball.

Pritchard Set To Face Old Club

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I have no silly vendetta. I just like to play well against them. They labeled me a troublemaker," says Cincinnati Bengals' linebacker Ron Pritchard. Sunday is homecoming for the former Arizona State All-American.

The Bengals travel to Houston, Pritchard's off-season home, for a battle of unbeaten AFC Central Division clubs. The winner takes over undisputed leadership in wake of defending champion Pittsburgh's loss to Buffalo.

Pritchard, a former No. 1 draft choice of the Oilers, is in his fourth season at Cincinnati since being traded in midseason of 1972.

"They traded in haste," said the 6-foot-1, 230-pounder. "It took them three to four years to replace what they lost."

The Oilers gave up flanker Charlie Joiner and Pritchard, both starters, to Cincinnati for running backs Paul Robinson and Fred Willis.

"In Charlie's case, it was a bad trade," said Pritchard, who has beefed up a Cincinnati defense which has two shutouts in its last three games.

Pritchard feels he was shuffled off to Cincinnati because he tried to assume a leadership role with the Oilers.

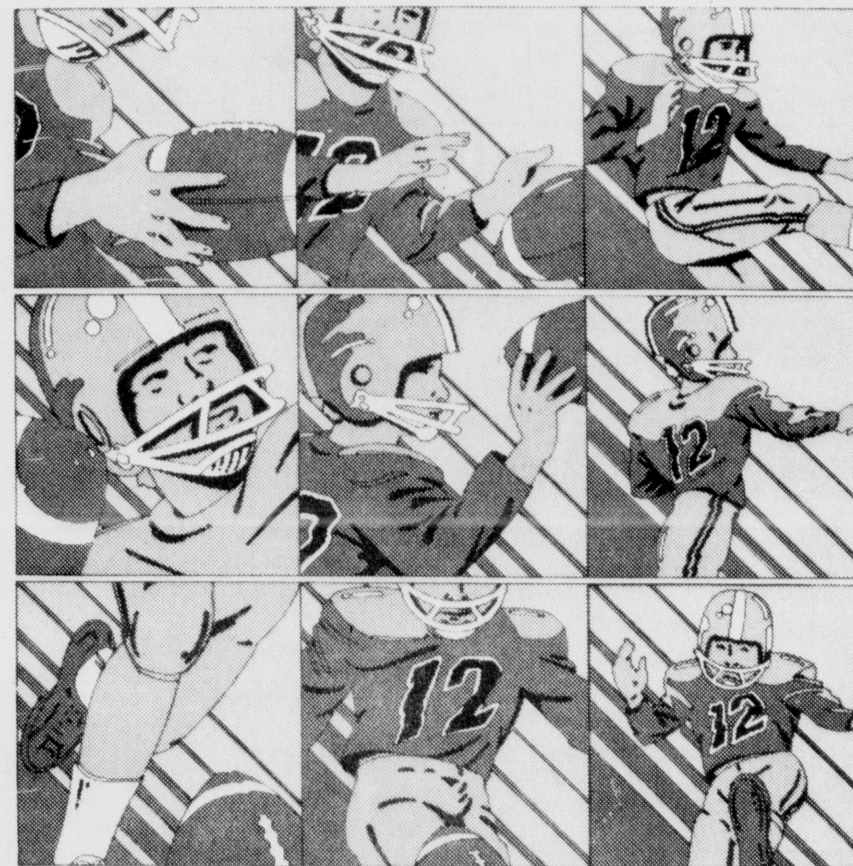

Top MAC Players

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two Ohio University stars, punter-wide receiver Mike Green and defensive end Steve Miller, are the Mid-American Conference Football Players of the Week.

Green, an Athens, Ohio, senior, caught seven passes for 94 yards and a pair of touchdowns and punted for a 38.8-yard average in the Bobcats' 23-21 victory over Kent State.

Miller, a senior from Ravenna, Ohio, produced a game-winning tackle in the Kent end zone for a two-point safety.

Tigers, Aces Rated In Computer Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Moeller and Newark Catholic, two of The Associated Press state poll leaders, pace the first Ohio High School Athletic Association computerized football ratings this season.

Moeller, one of the state playoff semifinalists a year ago, piked up 45 points, the most points of any of the four Class AAA regional pacesetters.

Newark Catholic, also carrying a 4-0 record, earned the top point total (20) among the Class A regional front-runners.

Circleville, The AP's statewide leader in Class AA, was tied for fourth in its own region.

The OHSAA uses the ratings, compiled by a Columbus firm, to decide its postseason playoff semifinalists each year.

Moeller paced Region 4 in Class AAA. Lakewood St. Edward led Region 1, Toledo St. John's Region 2 and Akron Ellet Region 3.

Cleveland Holy Name had the most impressive total, 25.99 points, in Class AA, leading Region 5. Other Class AA pacesetters were Lima Catholic and Genoa, tied in Region 6; Ironton in Region 7 and Bellbrook and London, deadlocked for the Region 8 top spot.

In Class A, Columbiana led Region 9, Montpelier Region 10, Newark Catholic Region 11 and Middletown Fenwick Region 12.

The OHSAA computer leaders and their point totals:

lightweights

These two lightweight models both weigh only 7 1/2 pounds without bar and chain. They are ideal for suburban or rural use, from cutting fire-wood to trimming tree limbs to felling trees. They will usually pay for themselves many times over in a very short time when you do yourself what you used to pay to have done.

- Centrifugal clutch, same as used in larger professional models, permits engine to idle without rotating chain. Also helps protect engine, bar and chain by disengaging and slipping if chain gets bound in the cut.
- Automatic and manual oilers for added lubrication protection of cutting bar and chain.
- Co-ordinated oil and fuel tanks eliminate need to stop to fill one. Fill both at the same time and have adequate supply of fuel and oil.
- Oil and fuel tank caps cannot be interchanged which reduces chance of pouring oil or fuel into wrong tank.
- All position carburetor maintains same performance regardless of the position of saw.
- Vibration dampened front and rear handles for added comfort and safety.
- 2.2 cubic inch displacement.
- Piston ported engine improves starting, idling and acceleration. Provides flat power curve for smooth, steady performance.
- Reversible cutting bar combined with sprocket-nose construction increases serviceable life-time of bar and cutting efficiency.
- Left-hand recoil starter permits close cutting to trees, ground or construction.
- Conveniently grouped controls for easier operation.
- Front and rear handles placed for best balance, comfort and control.
- Built-in bucking spike provides pivotal surface between saw and work for easier, controlled cutting.

Maj. John Andre Slept In American Soil 41 Years

EDITOR'S NOTE — Benedict Arnold escaped and lived, despite his perfidy. But Maj. John Andre, his British accomplice, was caught and hanged, and it was 41 years before his remains finally were returned to England for burial in Westminster Abbey.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
TAPPAN, N.Y. (AP) — It is called Andre Hill.

There, not far from the tavern where he was imprisoned as a British spy, Maj. John Andre was hanged 195 years ago — on Oct. 2, 1780 — for plotting with Benedict Arnold for the fall of West Point.

Andre was buried where he died. A plain monument marks the spot, but his remains are in Westminster Abbey, England. They were disinterred in 1821 and removed by the British consul in New York. He acted legally but secretly under cover of night when he heard that "hot spirits" were determined to throw the coffin into the Hudson River.

Only 10 days before his execution, Andre, chief intelligence officer for Sir Henry Clinton and adjutant general in the British army despite his youth (he was 29 or 30), had met with Arnold near Haverstraw, N.Y. Unable to return to the British warship, Vulture, which had been forced down the river by American fire, Andre spent the day in a farmhouse.

The next day, Sept. 23, Andre, disguised as a civilian but with a pass from Arnold made out in the name of John Anderson, was captured by three rebel scouts near Tarrytown as he tried to reach the British lines. They found in his boots details about the defenses of West Point, loss of which might have damaged irreparably the American cause. Arnold got word in time to escape by barge to the Vulture.

Had he been captured or exchanged, Arnold, who tried to sell out his command for 20,000 pounds sterling and a commission of brigadier general in the British army, would have been executed. Negotiations to exchange Andre for Arnold were undertaken but the British commander refused. British policy was against returning defectors.

Andre was taken across the Hudson to Mable's Tavern at Tappan, close to George Washington's headquarters. There he was tried on Sept. 29 before a military board of general officers. The board found that he "ought to be considered a spy from the enemy; and that, agreeable to the law and usage of nations, it is their opinion he ought to suffer death."

Washington ordered the execution for 5 p.m. Oct. 1. Andre had appealed that he not be considered a spy, saying he had come ashore wearing his uniform and under sanction of a passport from Arnold. Clinton, the British commander, also appealed to Washington, who delayed the execution until noon Oct. 2, and then ordered it carried out.

Andre, dressed in a fresh uniform, was assisted in mounting the wagon beneath the hangrope. He adjusted it and, according to a witness, said, "I pray you bear me witness that I met my fate like a brave man."

Maj. Benjamin Tallmadge, Washington's chief of intelligence, who had brought Andre across the river to his prison, wrote many years later:

"I walked with him to the place of execution and parted with him under the gallows, entirely overwhelmed with grief that so gallant an officer, and so accomplished a gentleman, should come to so ignominious an end."

Forty-one years after the execution, James Buchanan, British consul in New York, expressed concern that "only a heap of stones" marked the place of Andre's "suffering at Tappan." He wrote the Duke of York, then commander in chief, suggesting erection of a suitable monument or removal of the remains. The Duke of York suggested they be interred in Westminster Abbey. Gov. De Witt Clinton of New York said, "Our laws interpose no obstacle to this measure."

Buchanan's narrative of the exhumation, written for a military journal, is included in "The Demarest Family," the history of a family that settled in this country from Amsterdam in 1663.

The owner of the field where Andre was buried, the Rev. John Demarest, was agreeable to the removal.

"With great care the broken lid was removed, and there in our view lay the bones of the brave Andre," Buchanan wrote. "The roots of a small peach tree had completely surrounded the skull like a net. After allowing all the people to pass around in regular order and view the remains as they lay, which very many did with unfeigned tears and lamentation, the bones were carefully removed and placed in the sarcophagus." This was taken to the Demarest home, with removal to a British ship in New York to take place four days later.

Buchanan said that on his return to New York that night he learned from "a citizen of the first respectability" that "some hot spirits had agreed that they would mark every citizen who should attend, and that they were determined to meet the procession on the way, and throw the sarcophagus into the Hudson."

He decided to return to Tappan the next night. He arrived at the home of the pastor, who "derided my fear" and said "he would guarantee all would go off well." Furthermore, the pastor said, removal now would "greatly disappoint numbers who were to come to his house next day to see 'the rare spectacle of so grand an article as the sarcophagus.'" He said he found Mrs. Demarest more inclined to his view and so the pastor reluctantly consented but still did not believe "there were such miscreants in the world."

Buchanan and his party arrived by carriage in New York at 5 a.m. and were taken by boat to a British packet where Buchanan said, "with feeling that never shall be effaced from my memory, I placed the remains under the British flag."

A snuffbox, lined with gold and made from a piece of a cedar tree that grew over Andre's grave, was sent to the pastor by the Duke of York with the inscription "to mark his sense of the Rev. John Demarest's liberal attention upon the occasion of the removal of the remains of the late Maj. John Andre at Tappan on the 10th August 1821."

As for Arnold, he fought for the British. After Yorktown, he sailed with Cornwallis for England, where he died June 14, 1801, at the age of 60.

His attempt to surrender West Point branded him forever a traitor. Washington called his actions "villainous perfidy." Historian Carl Van Doren called him "the Iago of traitors."

Arnold once told Talleyrand, the French diplomat:

"I am an American. I was born there and have spent most of my life there, yet I am probably the only living American who can say, 'I have not one friend in America. No, not one.' I am Benedict Arnold."

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Keen perception needed. Planetary influences somewhat restrictive. Don't risk present assets on the basis of "information" backed by nothing.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A minor flirtation could be a pleasant diversion, but don't let it take your mind off your work. There's much to be accomplished — profitably.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Your know-how and ability to handle the unexpected could result in outstanding advantages. Spend time and talents constructively. This day will be rich in opportunity.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some business procedures may be revised. You may not completely understand at first, but go along with the changes as best you can and you'll find that they work out very well.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A day which should lift your spirits considerably. Personal relationships could be highly congenial, with romance accented during the p.m. hours. You may also get an extraordinarily good break in a financial matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A day for action! Don't slow up progress by being overly meticulous, fussy, looking for nonexistent defects in your program.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Don't consider first thoughts only, nor first impressions. You could be mistaken about motivations, indications, meanings. Give all the benefit of the doubt.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): You may run into snags or obstacles — but you can handle them well. Pep up an old idea, keep your vision broad. Think over past experiences — and profit by them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 21): Jupiter influences extremely generous. A day in which to exercise your keen faculties and capitalize on your wealth or talents. Business matters especially favored.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Be careful not to mix friends and finances now. Arguments, mistrust on either side would be a distinct possibility. In other respects, day should go well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): You may face some inconveniences but the result will justify them and will compensate if you handle situations maturely. Broaden your mental horizons, perk up enthusiasm.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Stellar influences suggest that you expand — within reason. Tread cautiously in new areas but go forward confidently on familiar paths. Progressive ideas stimulated.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a lively imagination, a fine intellect and great versatility — especially along creative lines. You also have the ability to turn ordinary circumstances into golden opportunities for gain. You can go it alone or join amicably with others, and you like working with those who do things brightly, concisely and with little fuss. You can rise with so little fanfare yourself that you often surprise others with your abilities. You are highly objective in your thinking and essentially view all things dispassionately and unemotionally. This fact sometimes gives others the impression that you are "cold" but, actually, you are a warm person — simply aiming for accuracy and perfection. Birthdate of: George Bancroft, Amer. historian; Gore Vidal, author, playwright.

Ali, Frazier Hedge On Retirement

MANILA (AP) — Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier both hedged on retirement plans today as they prepared to leave the scene of one of the greatest heavyweight title fights in ring history.

"I don't want to retire as much today as I did after the fight yesterday," world titleholder Ali said, relaxing in his 21st-floor suite of a Manila hotel.

"Tomorrow I will want to retire even less. Somebody will come up with a big stack of money and I will be anxious to go again."

Earlier, Frazier, calling a formal press conference said that, despite pleadings of his family to hang up his gloves, he would not make up his mind until he has explored all the alternatives with his trainer and advisor, Eddie Futch.

"I may say I will retire and then, after a couple of weeks, I will want to get my motor cranked up one more time," he said.

Both Ali and Frazier wore dark glasses to hide the damage around their eyes suffered in the brutal, physical slugfest that ended with Frazier failing to answer the bell for the 15th and final round.

Air Force soccer captain is senior fullback Dwight Landmann of Ellington, Conn.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS tonight is airing a flawed but interesting show about John Henry Faulk's battle against McCarthy-era "blacklisting" in broadcasting, the denial of work to those not "cleared" by Communist-watchers as red-baited Americans.

Called "Fear on Trial," it's based on the book of the same name by Faulk, a folksy, Texas-born humorist and commentator whom radio station WCBS — owned by CBS — fired him in the summer of 1957.

The dismissal happened about 1½ years after a small anti-Communist group called Aware implied in a pamphlet that he was pro-Communist, a charge he denied as sponsors began dropping out.

While CBS officials said the dropping of his afternoon talk show was due only to falling ratings, Faulk couldn't find work in broadcasting for a long time. He went broke and his marriage failed.

Tonight's show dramatizes those times and the libel suit he won against Aware, Vincent Hartnett, a self-described consultant on Communism, and the late Laurence Johnson, a retired supermarket owner who beefed to sponsors about Faulk.

In this show, George C. Scott is superb as Louis Nizer, the lawyer who argued Faulk's case so well the jury in 1962 gave Faulk a $3.5 million judgment, later reduced to $550,000 on appeal.

Alas, William Devane, so good as the late President Kennedy in "Missiles of October," doesn't hack it as Faulk.

David W. Rintels' script has many absorbing moments, particularly as it depicts the cold shoulder Faulk gets from the frightened broadcast executives he once considered his friends.

But despite this and some chilling court testimony about blacklisting, the show never really pins down how or why blacklisting was accepted in the 1950s. Nor does it name those who tolerated it.

It notes that Faulk was first attacked by Aware after his election as an officer — who ran as an opponent of blacklisting — in the New York local of AFTRA, the union of performers in broadcasting.

But omitted is the fact that the election was preceded by bitter wrangling in the local over whether Communists — real, accused or imagined — were afoot in the land, and more specifically, broadcasting.

Rites Set For Larry McPhail

By BOB GREENE

AP Sports Writer

Larry McPhail, a baseball innovator who revolutionized the game, will be buried Friday in the small Michigan town of Cass City, where he was born and raised.

MacPhail, who installed the first lights in a major league baseball park, thereby allowing night games, and who began Old Timers' Day, died Wednesday morning in a Miami, Fla., nursing home. He was 85.

"Larry MacPhail was dynamic, bombastic and smart," said Gabe Paul, president of the New York Yankees. "He made many contributions to baseball and I have a special place in my heart and my memories for him."

The first club president to fly his team to all road games and who tapped the Caribbean as a fertile ground for exhibitions and training camps, MacPhail built pennant winners of the Cincinnati Reds, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Yankees. He retired from baseball after his 1947 Yankees won the World Series.

"I'm finished," he said following the Yanks' victory over the Dodgers. "I promised my wife I'd retire when a team of mine won a World Series."

MacPhail, who came to be known as the "Barnum of Baseball," entered the sport in 1930 when he purchased the Columbus, Ohio, Senators of the American Association for $100,000. He rebuilt the team's park, adding lights, and quickly turned the club into a pennant winner. Then he sold it to Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals for a profit.

He then took over the Cincinnati Reds in 1933, a last-place team that was in debt. MacPhail installed lights there and got his friend, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, to switch them on.

Before long, MacPhail built a winner and the Reds won the National League pennant in 1939 and 1940, just after MacPhail retired from baseball for the first time.

He returned to baseball to do a similar rescue operation on the Dodgers. In Brooklyn's first night game after MacPhail installed lights, Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati pitched his second consecutive no-hit game.

But the Dodgers won the National League flag in 1941 and finished second in 1942 before MacPhail left the game once more, this time to join an Army unit during World War II.

After the war, he purchased the Yankees and returned them to power while introducing Old Timers' Day to Yankee Stadium.

In 1958, when the Braves were still in Milwaukee and the A's in Kansas City, MacPhail proposed a four-divisional setup for baseball—close to what exists today—with teams in Seattle, Denver, Dallas, Houston, New Orleans, Atlanta, Toronto, Montreal, Mexico City and Havana. He also suggested second teams be located in New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and either Detroit or Philadelphia.

His survivors include his widow, Jean; two sons, Lee, president of the American League, and William, former vice president of CBS, and two daughters, Jeannie and Marian.

Anderson Blasts Press, Public Critics

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sparky Anderson, testy over speculation that his job could be in jeopardy if the Cincinnati Reds stumble in postseason play, says he's weary of second-guessing by the press and public.

"I could care less what the writers—or the fans—think of me," said Anderson, who hopes to end Cincinnati's 35-year world championship drought.

"You don't belong up here if you worry about losing your job," said the Reds' white-haired manager, in a rare combative mood.

The Reds, who stormed to an incredible 20-game margin over defending National League champion Los Angeles, are readying for their next test: a best-of-5 playoff series against potent Pittsburgh for the NL title.

Cincinnati has suffered three crushing post-season defeats in the past five years after amassing the best record in baseball during that span. Anderson said press attacks on members of his profession have left him wondering whether it pays to be a nice guy. He said he no longer reads the sports pages because of critical articles.

"The only thing I read is the box scores. I only believe 50 per cent of what I read, then divide that by 20 and go from there. I realize everything has to be glamorous and flashy, but I've been misquoted so many times I'm sick of it. So much of it is trash," he said.

Anderson, who at age 41 has managed the Reds to the winningest NL record since 1907, says the second-guessers have taken the fun out of the job.

"I can't walk into the office of a doctor, a lawyer or a sports writer and do their jobs. Why do they think they can manage?" he asked incredulously.

"I'm just George Anderson and I don't know any other way to be. I don't put any value on money or in wearing a major league uniform," he said.

He finds it galling that winning managers reap the glory and the losers are branded incompetent.

Southpaw Mickey Lolich has started more games, struck out more batters and hurled more shutouts than any pitcher in the history of the Detroit Tigers.

Sneek-A-Peek

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Remember growing up? Were you often excited and then horribly disappointed; hopeful and later just crushed; brave and, yes, even sometimes, a "scaredy-cat"? Good books for young people look at that uncertain world and even more importantly offer choices to children faced with making decisions.

A familiar situation in grade school is the bully who makes life painful for the smaller kids. "The 18th Emergency" is an understanding closeup of one week of terror for 12 year old Mouse. Afraid and alone, at times even able to laugh at his difficulties, Mouse learns that running from the biggest boy in the 6th grade doesn't always solve your problems.

"M. C. Higgins, the Great" is the 1974 Newberry prize winner for the most distinguished book for children, awarded by the American Library Association. The author, Virginia Hamilton lives in Yellow Springs, Ohio and writes of Ohio people. M. C. lives on a piece of land on the side of a mountain ruined by strip mining. He is wise about animals and the hills he has always lived in, but, he still yearns for a safe world away from the danger of the coal mining life. Readers will be thrilled at M. C.'s powerful swimming and skillful mountain climbing and they will hope for a good life for this intelligent, fun-loving boy.

Carol Brink also won the Newberry Medal for her portrait of a saucy, courageous girl, "Caddie Woodlawn." Caddie refuses to be a lady; preferring to visit an Indian camp or paddle a raft across a nearby lake. Her exciting adventures in Wisconsin in the 1860's will appeal to those who love the "Little House" books.

"Queenie Peavy" knows what its like to be the object of jokes. Her father is in jail and she is different from the others. But, 13 year old Queenie throws stones and fights back. This story of bad times in the 30's has lasting meaning for any child who has ever been different.

In a lighter mood are the troubles of Lori, a 5th grader in "Rod and Reel Trouble." As the first girl to enter a boy's fishing contest, Lori has to endure jokes and anxiety, but she never gives up. This short book is a good choice for impatient readers.

Another easy to read book is "A Pony Called Lightning." This is a brief story of a young Indian pony who becomes a hero. There is real adventure in the race for time as the pony fights for the life of a girl trapped in a furious grass fire.

Manager Named For Murphy Mart

H. P. RUMBAUGH
General Manager

Manager of the Murphy's Mart in Circleville is H. P. Rumbaugh. He moved to his new position from Syracuse N.Y., where he managed the Murphy store for the last six years.

Rumbaugh started his Murphy career as a management-trainee at Butler Pa. and continued as an assistant manager at Wildwood, N.J., McKees Rocks, Mt. Oliver, and Indiana, Pa. and at North Tonawanda, N.Y. He was promoted to the position of zone manager at the Syracuse Murphy store in 1967, and has served as the manager of that unit since September 1969.

As manager of the new Murphy's Mart, Rumbaugh is responsible for its overall operation. While stressing that his primary assignment is organizing to provide outstanding values and customer service, Rumbaugh said his staff will be constantly involved in studies to meet the challenges presented by the changing wants and needs of his customers.

The new unit is located in the firm's Western Regional Sales Division which is under the supervision of R. W. Smeltz who headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind. Smeltz said the new Murphy's Mart is an outstanding example of today's modern mass merchandising technique and will provide area shoppers with a truly one-
